ENSURING DOCUMENT INTEGRITY

MagVision™

A concern shared amongst high volume mailing service providers is the security and accuracy of their production runs. In automated mailing systems where closed faced envelopes are preferred, there has been no non-destructive way to check and ensure that the address printed on the envelope matched the address for the recipient on the enclosure. Until now.

Building on 15+ years of experience providing Print to Mail integrity solutions, Inspectron is proud to announce the MagVision™ intelligent scanning solution. Using patented technology, MagVision™ allows variable data codes to be 'read' through opaque material. The barcodes can be prepared on a standard laser printer – no special inks, fonts or paper.

MagVision™ delivers the enabling technology for the first truly zero risk read and print solutions; it can easily be integrated into any customer environment or application, and because it acts like a normal barcode scanner, you have all of the proven reliability of barcode technology.

Typical applications include read and print mailings, quality addressing applications and other secure personalised communications. MagVision™ gives 100% confidence that there can be no mismatch between personalised contents and the address on the envelope.

Consider MagVision™ in a quality addressing application. Sitting downstream of an inserter, sealed closed face envelopes pass across the MagVision™ read head. MagVision™ reads unique customer information stored within the barcode printed on the enclosed document. Data is decoded and transferred to the inkjet printer software triggering the correct characters for printing; imaging the address on the envelope in a script font. An optional verification camera confirms the match and delivers a proof of mailing manifest.

With over 1,000 solutions installed worldwide, Inspectron is ideally positioned to help with your unique integrity needs.
